Biographical Note

Linda M. Klug (1940-) was an anthropologist and professor emeritus at Central Washington University, Ellensburg, Washington. Klug's research interests include the Zapotec Culture of Mexico and Samal Culture in the Philippines. She conducted field work in the Philippines beginning in September of 1968 and remained there until November of 1969. While in the Philippines, Klug focused on studying the Zamboanga area and the island of Malanlipa (Lahat Ano). Klug later returned to the Philippines during the summer of 1971 in order to shoot footage for her documentary films: Life on Samal Island (published 1976) and Patterns of Samal Childhood. Much of Klug's work in the Philippines influenced her later career.

Klug received her BA at the University of California at Santa Barbara. She completed her MA thesis on Acculturation and Marketing in Eight Oaxacan Villages (1969) for San Francisco State University. She received her PhD from the University of Pittsburgh after submitting a dissertation entitled Kinship and Alliance on Lahat Ano (1972).

Provenance

The Linda Klug papers were donated to the National Anthropological Archives in 2002 by Professor Linda Klug. The collection occupies 7.3 linear feet of shelf space.

Scope and Content Note

These papers relate to the professional and personal life of Linda M. Klug. The bulk of this collection relates to Klug's work in the Philippines with the Samal culture. The collection mainly reflects Klug's interests in linguistics and childhood behavior. The collection also pertains to Klug's interests in a wide variety of topics including, but not limited to: ethnomusicology, marriage and religious practices, kinship units, economic and ecological factors, and gastronomy.

Included in the collection are field notes, linguistic materials, research notes, her PhD dissertation, compositions, correspondence, card files, maps, photographs, slides, a journal, expense accounts, grant applications, scripts and other documents that cover a period from the mid -1960's to the mid-1980's.

The audiotapes (21), audiocassettes (3), and reels of film (64) from this collection were transferred to the Human Studies Film Archives. Also, one artifact was sent to Collections.

Processing Note

In order to facilitate use of this collection, the processor did the following: established six series; clarified folder labels where appropriate; sorted card files by size and subject; and merged folders containing like materials. She did not separate out the photographs, negatives, contact sheets and other visual materials embedded in folders and card files. She transferred the collection into acid-free boxes and folders. Original card file separators remain.

Series Descriptions and Container Lists

Series I – Field Notes (1968-c.1970) 2 feet

Arranged alphabetically by subject. Contains Klug's field notes from the Philippines as well as some of her card files. The field notes are on various subjects relating to the Philippines and Philippine culture. There are some photographs embedded in the field notes as well as one notebook devoted to plant samples. The first card file (Box 2) includes a journal with daily entries from September 9, 1968 to October 30, 1969, notes on fishing and the economy, and a children's research "log book." There is also a photograph card (Box 2) file, which contains the bulk of the photographs in this collection. The photograph file is arranged first by location and then chronologically. Most of the photographs depict children and social groups. The second card file (Box 3) contains notes on various cultural aspects of Samal. Examples of headings include: "weddings," "factions," "what is kinship," "informal groups," "fishing," "migrations," "land/tree ownership," "funerals," "graves," "other supernatural," etc. There are many photographs embedded in this file. Finally, there is a card file dealing with notes on specific children (Box 4).
